Handmade with blown glass, the Ambasciata collection presents timeless and elegant glasses in shapes for every occasion. Venini first crafted the Ambasciata design in 1925 and continues to blow each piece by hand with the utmost care and craftsmanship. The Ambasciata—Italian for “embassy”—collection can be found in the Italian embassies. Founded in 1920 on the famed Venetian island of Murano, Italy, Venini Glassworks honors the uncompromising nature of its master craftsmen by tirelessly seeking new, rich colors and textures that move the art form beyond its traditional limitations and make it truly contemporary. Venini’s nearly century-long commitment to both progress and perfection allows them to offer a collection of decorative objects made of hand-blown Murano glass that is as daring as it is exquisite.
